General Information

The Adopt-A-Bird Program is available to everyone who meets the criteria identified in the Adopt-a-Bird Program's Policies and Procedures. The committee will share your contact information (name, e-mail address, and phone number) with people re-homing the type of bird you list on this form, if and when one becomes available.

Please be VERY specific in the types of birds you would consider adopting. Do not say "A parrot" or "a big talking bird."

If the current owner has the bird, they will make a decision on who gets to adopt their bird. The Alaska Bird Club only connects the current owner with potential adopters, and then steps away.

If the Alaska Bird Club has custody of the bird, the decision on who gets to adopt the bird is made by the Adopt-A-Bird Committee.

Any family, household, or individual who has previously re-homed three or more birds through the Adopt-A-Bird program will not be eligible to adopt through the Adopt-A-Bird program.

The Alaska Bird Club will keep this application on file. It is your responsibility to submit a new application if the information you submitted changes. As birds become available for adoption, each application will be reviewed and your name and contact information will be given to the current owner of the bird if it matches the species or type of bird you listed on your application.

The Alaska Bird Club strongly encourages you to vet check and quarantine any new bird coming into your home and that you get a release of ownership from the current owner.

The Alaska Bird Club assumes no responsibility for the quality, health, or training of any birds placed in this program. In addition, The Alaska Bird Club, its officers, and members cannot be held liable for any damage or illness brought about by a bird adopted through applications submitted to this program.

Questions and comments can be submitted to akbirdclub@yahoo.com, left on our voicemail (907) 868-9070, or on Facebook at <http://www.facebook.com/alaskabirdclub>.
